The Council on Foreign Relations is a nonpartisan, nonprofit, membership, and public engagement organization dedicated to the improvement of American foreign policy. Founded in 1921, we are a nonpartisan membership organization devoted to strengthening the nation’s institutions for global leadership and improving American foreign policy. To this end, we invite and encourage all Americans to participate in political discourse and to consider the factors that will shape the decisions we make in the coming years.

The Council on Foreign Relations has a broader reach than any other forum that brings together leaders from across society to engage and educate Americans about the world. We are one of the only places where citizens, business leaders, and policymakers work side by side to understand how they fit together. We welcome all who seek to be part of this discourse.

The Council’s nonpartisan membership includes the nation’s top elected leaders, government officials, business leaders, and influential public leaders. Membership in the Council is open to all Americans, and we are also proud to have hosted members of Congress, defense leaders, and many other prominent Americans.

The Council’s programs and publications are designed to inform and engage the public, and the results of that work are shared with the public. The Council is an equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, age, religion, marital status, protected veteran status, or disability status.

The Council on Foreign Relations is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization. Contributions to the Council on Foreign Relations are tax deductible in accordance with the tax laws of the United States.

The Council on Foreign Relations
380 Madison Avenue
New York, NY 10376

Telephone: 212-434-9900
Fax 212-434-9950

Support the Council
The Council on Foreign Relations is committed to providing its members with a high-quality program of events, publications, and educational opportunities. To support the Council’s work, please visit our website at cfr.org.

Establishment Elite Still in Control

The Council on Foreign Relations is a nonpartisan, membership, and public engagement organization dedicated to the improvement of American foreign policy. Founded in 1921, we are a nonpartisan membership organization devoted to strengthening the nation’s institutions for global leadership and improving American foreign policy. To this end, we invite and encourage all Americans to participate in political discourse and to consider the factors that will shape the decisions we make in the coming years.

The Council on Foreign Relations has a broader reach than any other forum that brings together leaders from across society to engage and educate Americans about the world. We are one of the only places where citizens, business leaders, and policymakers work side by side to understand how they fit together. We welcome all who seek to be part of this discourse.

The Council’s nonpartisan membership includes the nation’s top elected leaders, government officials, business leaders, and influential public leaders. Membership in the Council is open to all Americans, and we are also proud to have hosted members of Congress, defense leaders, and many other prominent Americans.

The Council’s programs and publications are designed to inform and engage the public, and the results of that work are shared with the public. The Council is an equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, age, religion, marital status, protected veteran status, or disability status.

The Council on Foreign Relations is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization. Contributions to the Council on Foreign Relations are tax deductible in accordance with the tax laws of the United States.

The Council on Foreign Relations
380 Madison Avenue
New York, NY 10376

Telephone: 212-434-9900
Fax 212-434-9950

Support the Council
The Council on Foreign Relations is committed to providing its members with a high-quality program of events, publications, and educational opportunities. To support the Council’s work, please visit our website at cfr.org.